Unofficials in the budget debate on the question of housing was the need for more for those earning an income of less than $300. As this group makes up the majority of the population its accommodation must claim a high priority. This does not mean that other forms of housing have now reached a stage where progress might be regarded as satisfactory.

Dr S. N. Chau points out that despite the millions spent on squatter resettlement, about 350,000 or more than the number already accommodated, still need to be resettled. And despite the $100 million spent each year by private enterprise ercw members, claimed; on new domestic premises. standards still fall a long below what is generally considered desirable minimum.

MORE NEEDED

TOWEVER progress in various schemes needs to be examined from time to time to ensure that all housing requirements attention. Properly Government concentrates on the housing which ignores. STIMULANT

COLONEL Clague spoke of the need for measures private to encourage housing development in the event of a decline in investment. These were outlined in last" December's Housing Committee report and cit only remains for Government to select, when necessary, those likely to be most stimulating. He also apoke of the high cost of crown land which has on occasions failed to attract buyers even at upset prices. Clearly this must not become a deterrent building activity, even if Government has to accept a small loss in revenue. The renewed plea for partial decontrol of prownr rents is one which will have to be considered soon. Dr Chau also 'suggests' that rates should be imposed on all new premises six months after completion instead of waiting for occupation. This would force property owners to rent or sell them more speedily than has sometimes been the case in the past. There will be wide public agreement with this ouggestion.

Tours, France, March 19. Pierre Duport, a 35-year-old baker of La Celle-Saint-Avant, was sentenced to forced labour for life today for murdering his wife and cremating the body in his oven.

Duport was accused of strangling his 20-year-old second wife, Yolande, and then burning her body shortly before he baked the morning's bread. Duport was alleged to have quarrelled with Yolande over his association with their

THE FIRST QUESTION: Do you think West Berlin worth the risk of world war?

WITH time running out, and neither East nor West in a compromising mood over Berlin, the fate of this divided city looms as the most vital issue of our day. Top Interest Centred On Dodgers-Cardinals Junior League Clash

By OLLY VAS

There will be more than passing interest displayed by Junior league fans in this weekend's softball games as a very interesting situation could arise depending on the result of the important Junior clash between the PI Dodgers and the Cardinals on Sunday at 3.30 p.m.

Fred Diesta's Dodgers win this match it would mean a play-off for the title against the Cheyennes. If Caesar Coelho's Cardinals emerge victorious and the Filipinos in turn down the Cheyennes in a game to be rescheduled, a three-way tie would result.

Unbeaten

By now it is well-known in local softball circles that Robert Remedios' Cheyennes always make heavy weather of easy opposition but despite their fondness for speciacular late rollies I connot see this fastmoving team losing to the Overseas.

At 11.00 a.m. the unbeaten SCAA ladies' team take on the Toreros. The Caroliners' ace, pitcher Yim Lai-sheung struck out 13 in their previous meeting. With Yim pitching so well these drys it would be nothing short of miraculous if SCAA do not score a double-figure win.

A very uninteresting game comes on after the lunch period when the Diamonds meet the Eagles in another Junior match. The former earlier scored an casy 9-1 victory over the Eagles but the Eagles can gain revenge for their earlier defeat if they show some determination and play the brand of softball they are capable of, Il's anyone's

STEELS HIGHER IN LONDON

London, March 19. Steel shares paced a higher stock market today.

The upturn was induced by news reaching the House of Commons that unemployment figures fell 58,000 last month, leading some to believe there may be elections in May and June in which the Tories would stand a good chance of remaining in the driver's seat.

The net result was that steel shares, recently in the doldrums for fear of nationalisation if the Socialists came to power, shot upward setting the tone for other groups.

Steels such as Stewarts and Lloyd and United States tacked Burroughs on nearly lavo shillings. Else- Calif. Packing where industries firmed quietly Campbell Sou with good selective demand. Case (J. I.)

Friday

Thursday:

This was not unexpected as good company reports coupled with dividend payments have opened the eyes of bargainhunters, who have snapped up the first class shares at quite cheap prices.

Even though the market was very active this week, there still seems room for improvement, and with more dividends to be pald out in the forthcoming weeks, shares-many of which are still showing attractive yields-are certain to rise to even higher levels.

Buying Spree

This buying spree started last week and as prices started to rise Chinese, investors, who usually buy on a rising market, came out into the open and invested their liquid funds in shares, many of which had excellent prospects for the future.

Cements, which last week were yielding 13.8 per cent, were in heavy demand this week and under the constant pressure they rose from their ex-dividend price of $23.50 to $25.80 yesterday. Even at this rate they are still yielding over 11 per cent and with prospects of a better dividend next year, this share is expected to rise even further in the coming Holels were in good demand during the week as investors anticipated a better dividend this year. This share rose $1 to close at $24.40.

Docks and Wharves were still on the soft side with Dock losing $1 and Wharves losing $4.50 on the week. This has been partly due to their company reports. Also Taikoo Docks are soon to All prices are in cruzciros per | be quoted on the Exchange. Turnover for the week was In the United States, the up to $5.9 million—the highest was only $2.95 million.

Useful Gains

Here is on Ice House Street observer's account of the market:

The Slock Market took on a decidedly more cheerful appearance this week with the majority of stocks making useful gains in some fairly brisk trading at times,

The overall turnover amounted to $5,904,000 which was the best recorded for some time. This has probably been partly due to a little more confidence and dividend funds now : becoming available . for . re-investment into a market where many exertient yields. are obtainable. Many of the secent company reports appear most satisfacfory and augur well for future prospects. Cements were again the
